

Outsourcing IT

ADM outsourcing service is the opportunity for your company:

- Reduce significantly its costs,
- Keep the performance, stability and availability of its applications,
- Speed up to focus on strategic initiatives.

The key reasons why customers recognize our ADM outsourcing service are:

Alignment of IT business company strategy:

We ensure the alignment of the services provided to the business strategies and the operational priorities or investment decisions.

Significant savings of costs: HOSTEVO generate cost savings through productivity, quality and accelerated delivery of benefits that allow our customers to focus on its strategic initiatives.

Access to a deep technical knowledge: Experts from DCTEVO CONSULTING in our centers of excellence around the world have a deep knowledge and technical expertise, business and industry in which they engage, allowing them to go further than a simple delivery of IT services.

Effectiveness in application portfolio rationalization: Through a detailed assessment of a development plan regular reporting on application portfolios, we help our clients make important investment decisions that in the end, ensure continuous improvement its applications and better service to end users at the same time as reducing costs.

Predictable expense adaptable to business needs: We provide our customers the visibility and control of the performance.

Custom Transition Programs:

Based on a management approach to proactive change and strong project management practices, our transition program allows customers to easily migrate to delivery models developed specifically for your environment and preferences, minimizing the impact on the basic functions of the business.

All the resources allocated to the projects are an experienced team

